

ABSTRACT

An embodiment of the present invention comprises a method of translating text in an e-mail message, comprising the steps of receiving original text in an original language in the e-mail message; translating 5 the original text into translated text in a translated language; and displaying one or both of the original text and translated text in the e-mail message.